THE EXCITEMENT IS VERY INTENSE

Extra Gards Protect Prisoners and Every Precaution Is Taken to Prevent Hanging

A PLAN IS ALREADY MADE

Officials Learn that in Case of Acquittal Effort to Avenge Crime will Be Made

WATSEKA, Ill., March 28.—Threats of violence reaching the ears of State's Attorney Ballissard caused the greatest care being exercised when Mrs. Lucy Sayler, Dr. Wm. R. Miller and John Grunden were taken from the jail to the courthouse where their trial for the murder of Barker J. B. Sayles of Crescent City was resumed today. Instead of Mrs. Sayler being escorted only by her daughter Golda and the wife of Sheriff Heikes, a deputy joined the party. Extra deputies also accompanied Dr. Miller and Grunden. It is believed that arrangements have been made for a mob to take charge of the prisoners in case they are acquitted. An assault on the prisoners is expected at any moment and 50 farmers are ready to be sworn in as deputies.

Witness Gibson told Dr. Miller examining his own wounds after the shooting and remarked that a doctor must be called as two arteries in his arm had been cut. John Grunden told Gibson that it was all a sad affair. Gibson's testimony created a more favorable impression for the defendants.

Chief of Police Kelley issued an order today for officers to disperse all gatherings on street corners, where the Sayler trial was being discussed. He also had arranged men in case of a demonstration.

Extra deputies were near the prisoners at all times today. When the seats in the court room were filled the doors were closed and deputies stood guard.

A. N. Harwood, a tile maker, took the stand at noon.

JUDGES DISAGREE ON SALOON CASE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 28.—The decision today by Judge Craighton that election commissioners have no judicial power to go behind the face of petitions asking that the saloon question be placed on the ballot, insures the submission of the saloon question to the voters of Springfield April 5. The court's decision contradicts the Chicago election commission which decided it had judicial powers and after examining the eligibility of signers to the petition, threw it out because it contained insufficient names.

BURGLARS FLED ON NORTHBOUND ST. PAUL TRAIN

Sheriff Traces Trio which Broke Out of Jail Onto Train at North Side

ADAMS IS SEEN AT WINONA

But by Time Fleshy Police-man Gets Into Action He Has Fled and Is Still at Liberty

Although the sheriff, his deputies and the local police have been busy in an effort to capture Walter Adams, Richard Harris and James Sarver, the three men who made their escape by breaking a hole in the brick wall of the county jail in broad daylight on Saturday, the prisoners have not been apprehended.

Adams, one of the two young men sentenced to the Green Bay reformatory, was seen in Winona, according to information received here, but he was too quick for the patrolman who took after him. He reached Winona on a freight train and an officer saw him get off. Adams, however, was on the other side of the train and when he spied the officer he jumped down on embankment and disappeared. When the policeman ran around the train his man was gone.

It has been learned that when the men made their escape they wore different clothes from those they had on when arrested. Adams had on a pair of overalls when seen in Winona. The clothes were changed with some of the prisoners in the jail. After leaving the jail the police learned that the trio went to the north side railroad yards and boarded a freight train, headed north, after asking a brakeman which way the train was going. It is thought that Harris and Sarver jumped off of the train at points between here and Winona, while Adams went on and left the train as it was pulling into that city.

Since then no trace has been found. Messages have been sent in all directions and officers all over this section of the country have been requested to look out for the men.

CHICAGO HAS NEW MURDER MYSTERY

CHICAGO, March 28.—That Alexander J. Moody, a member of the bakery firm of Moody, Walters & Company, and wealthy, was the victim of arsenic poisoning, was the statement of Coroner Hoffman today following an analysis of the contents of Moody's stomach by Prof. Walter Haines, the toxicologist. Moody died on Sunday night, Feb. 20, after being sick only a few hours, and Coroner Hoffman became suspicious. Moody was a brother-in-law of Congressman W. H. Moxley of the Sixth Illinois district.

It was learned this afternoon that once before about a dozen months ago an attempt was apparently made to poison Moody.

A large squad of detectives has been put to work on the case and it is said that two persons are under surveillance.

HAMLIN GARLAND ATTACKS MR. TAFT

West Salem Novelist Writes Book Founded Upon the Ballinger-Pinchot Episode

CHICAGO, March 28.—The Ballinger-Pinchot controversy has broken into fiction.

Hamlin Garland, the West Salem, Wis., novelist, is the author of a novel just published which is built around the fight Gifford Pinchot has made to get conservation of natural resources. In "Cavanagh, Forest Ranger," the author makes the chief forester the hero and takes a back handed slap at President Taft and the present administration.

The dismay which filled the forestry service when word reached the west that Pinchot had been dismissed is presented in the following manner:

"They've got him," a subordinate explains to Cavanagh. "He's out."

"Cavanagh sprang up, 'I don't believe it. For what reason? Why?'"

"Doesn't that letter tell you? The whole town is chuckling. Every criminal and plug-ugly in the country is spitting in our faces this morning. Yes, sir, the president has fired the chief. The whole works is going to hell, that's what it is. We'll have all the coal thieves and water thieves, poachers and free grass pirates in on us in mobs. Then where will we be?"

The indignation of Cavanagh and "his longing for the return of the 'colonel' to the White house," are told in great detail and the denunciation of President Taft for dismissing Pinchot and upholding Secretary Ballinger is only thinly disguised.

VESUVIUS RAGES ETNA IS RAMPANT

NAPLES, March 28.—Simultaneously with the subsidence of the eruption of Mount Etna came the awakening of Mount Vesuvius. Rumbling and earthquakes, loud and long, and of a particularly terrifying nature, have been followed by the opening of five fissures near the central crater, out of which volumes of smoke are pouring. So far there has been no evidence of an outpouring of lava, but the inhabitants of the district are fearful that this added terror is to come.

Nor did Etna take more than a brief nap, a fresh and vigorous eruption coming this afternoon after a subsidence of 24 hours. The new eruption is almost as violent as that of Friday and Saturday, and is accompanied by loud rumblings which add to the terror of the people.

A lava stream is now threatening its way through the village of San Leo and will probably entirely destroy the place. The people have all fled the town.

NO DIVORCE FOR KRAUSE IS VERDICT

MUNCIE, Ind., March 28.—The jury in the Krauss case did not impute Wm. K. Krauss in the murder of his daughter, Crystal Krauss, but at the same time it held that Krauss condoned his wife's crime. From the six questions answered by the jury it is indicated that the jury is unfavorable to granting Krauss a divorce. Judge Elliott will not decide the case for a week.

Lewis declares the strike will be ordered not only for the three states but for the entire country.

EXPLODING GUN KILLS 8 SAILORS

Cruiser Charleston Scene of Accident Due Probably to a Jammed Breech Pin

NAME A COURT OF INQUIRY

Investigation of Affair Ordered After Dead Marines Are Brought to Cavite for Burial

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—Eight men were killed on the cruiser Charleston yesterday at Oongapo, P. I., by the blowing out of the breech plug of the three inch guns according to a report received from the commander in chief Hubbard of the Asiatic fleet.

Those killed in the accident were: Philip John McKee, master at arms; Walter Amstedt, seaman; Henry A. Heater, seaman; Leo Rennele, ordinary seaman; Harry Reaves Graden, seaman; Ralph Berkman, ordinary seaman; Maxie Bernard, ordinary seaman; Edward Albert Molin.

A court of inquiry has been appointed by the commander in chief to investigate the accident. The men will be buried at Cavite, P. I.

Rear Admiral Hubbard, commander in chief of the station, expressed the opinion in his dispatch that the accident was due to the premature discharge. This might have happened, according to ordnance experts, through the jamming of the firing pin, which explodes the cartridges. The supposition is that the pin was not drawn back when the breech plug was withdrawn. Firing hastily, as would be the case in target practice, the breech plug, after the fresh cartridge had been inserted, probably was thrown into place with considerable force, the firing pin discharging the shell before the screw blocks were in place. As a natural consequence, the explosion shot the plug backward, out of the breech of the gun.

After bringing the dead to Cavite, the Charleston returned to the target range to continue her gun practice, which had been interrupted by the explosion.

6-YEAR-OLD SHOT HIS LITTLE BROTHER

DENVER, Colo., March 28.—Angered because his four year old brother had been named "Johnny" which cognomen he desired for a new baby which had recently arrived in the family, Joseph Burghard, 6, today shot and fatally wounded Johnny.

Joseph began brooding several weeks ago when a baby brother was born. The infant was given the name of Casper. When it was explained to Joseph that it was impossible to call the baby Johnny because his older brother bore that name, he conceived the idea of putting Johnny out of the way, he told his parents this afternoon. Today he climbed upon a chair and got down a .32-calibre revolver, which lay upon a high shelf in the Burghard home, and shot his brother.

AWFUL MURDER STIRS NEW YORK

Albert Wolter Accused of Slaying Girl He Sought as White Slave Victim

MAY HAVE KILLED OTHERS

Police Find Evidence Pointing to Prosecution of nefarious Business by Disreputable Gang

NEW YORK, March 28.—Under the influence of a grueling "third degree" Albert W. Wolter, accused of ensnaring 15 year old Ruth Wheeler, murdering her and burning her body in a grate, is reported at the Tombs prison to be rapidly breaking down. The authorities expect to have a signed statement from him before night telling all he knows about the crime.

His former companion, Katchen Mueller, gave the police a telling weapon. She declared today that twice during last Thursday night following the disappearance of the child stenographer, she was awakened by Wolter working about the fireplace in the front room. When she tried to see what he was doing he cursed her and threatened to strangle her if she did not go back to bed.

Under fire today the prisoner became hysterical and his screams could be heard throughout the Tombs.

Besides the death of the Wheeler girl, the police are trying to fasten upon the German youth a series of revolting crimes which will show him up in the light of a king of the drivers of "white slaves."

Woman in Plot

Katchen Mueller, Wolter's pseudo wife, who supported the youth and who lived with him in the flat on East 75th street, where the girl was killed and burned, has been arrested by the police and has given damaging evidence against her paramour. She has also given the names of a number of young girls with whom she said Wolter had had relations and the police are looking them up, believing they will be able to show that the youth had been living for a long while on the shame of women and as even gone to the point of destroying some of them who refused to become his slaves.

The police have obtained from Wolter's rooms a memorandum book, which they believe will disclose further evidence against the prisoner. It was in this book that was found the memorandum that Wolter had employed Ruth Wheeler, 15, as stenographer at $7 a week. Wolter, when arrested, denied he has ever heard of the Wheeler girl. This book contains the names of dozens of other New York girls, with their addresses, and detectives are seeking these, to learn if they became Wolter's victims.

White Slave Gang

Captain Hughes, in charge of the East Sixty-Seventh Street police station, who is in active charge of the case, said today he believed the pasty-complexioned German youth was the active head of a band of men and women who trafficked in white slaves, Wolter's task being to lure young girls to apartments and get them in his power either by persuasion or force if necessary.

Coroner Holtzhauser who has held Wolter to the grand jury without bail on the charge of murder told the United Press today that Ruth Wheeler was dead when placed in the fire place in which her slayer sought to burn her body, and thus hide the traces of his crime. He added many details which showed the fiendish brutality of the crime.

How He Did It

"Ruth Wheeler's slayer was a degenerate. I believe he trafficked in girls, luring them to his rooms by means of advertisements and then assaulting them, pointing to this shame to hold them in the life of vice he had planned for them."

"Ruth Wheeler went to Wolter's apartments in search of work. Her slayer probably attacked her and the girl screamed. The man instantly seized her by the throat to stop her cries. Probably without intention, (Continued on Page 6)

COMPENSATION TO WORKINGMEN

Tentative Industrial Insurance Bills Are Ready for a Public Hearing

MADISON, Wis., March 28.—The legislative joint committee on industrial insurance created by the legislature last June has made public its tentative bills.

These bills, relating to workingmen's compensation while disabled through accident, suggest what has been said by experts to be the only practical scheme ever put forward in America and are more advanced than the legislation of any other state in the union.

In sending out the tentative measures the committee announces that it will make no report to the governor until every opportunity has been given for hearings. The first hearing has been set for Tuesday, April 12, in the school board rooms of the Milwaukee city hall.

The accident insurance plan put forward by the legislature committee provides absolute and definite compensation for injured workmen, or, in case of death, for their families. An employer who accepts the plan agrees to pay a specified scale to employees injured in his service. He is required to cover the risk by insuring in an insurance corporation or with a mutual company.

Every employee of a concern coming under the proposed system gives up his right to recover provided, unless upon hiring he contracts to the contrary. This practically does away with expensive suits by injured workmen. A concern coming under the proposed plan also escapes the risk of suffering exorbitant verdicts at the hands of a jury. The insurance premium, instead of being used to resist suits, as under the present system, goes to pay the injured workman for time lost. So long as the compensation is paid an injured employee, his employer is relieved absolutely from further liability for damages.

Alleged North Dakota Murderer, Once Snatched From Gallows, Faces Court Anew

MINOT, N. D., March 28.—Albert Noah, snatched from the gallows by the supreme court, which granted him a new trial, is again struggling for his life in court facing a jury for the second time.

Nearly a year ago Noah was found guilty of murdering Gus Johnson, a farmer, near Nemare. The murder was a brutal, cold blooded affair, and the motive was robbery. Noah, it was charged, came to Johnson's farm with the intention of stealing grain, and, meeting resistance, he killed Johnson in cold blood.

On a technicality of procedure the case was remanded to the lower court for a new trial.

This action was taken today on motion of President Lewis.

MALTESE TERRIER CONFUSES POLICE

CHICAGO, March 28.—Confucius a diminutive Maltese terrier, has caused considerable confusion in Chicago police circles, and after a day before the police trial board involving a ton of mental pondering, several hundred pounds of legal advice and a learned discussion by the chief of police on the Maltese cross and Maltese art, the case is still undecided and appears as confusing as ever. Confucius weighs twenty-nine ounces.

All the weight of counsels, police trial board was cast in the scales of justice to solve the Maltese puzzle as to who owns the dog.

The rival claimants of Confucius are Mrs. Gertrude Ross, a dog fancier, and 18 year old Mabel Melvin. Confucius was brought before the police trial board because it is alleged that Detective J. T. Quinlan unjustly recovered the terrier from the possession of Mrs. Ross. It is said Confucius was nearly stolen from a former owner several years ago. A pickpocket espied an odd looking chain dangling from the expansive bosom of his prospective victim. He snatched the chain thinking there must be a costly watch at the other end, but he suddenly changed his mind, for it acted more like an alarm clock, and dropping chain and all he fled.

Confucius was at the other end of the chain.

A man's chief objection to going to church is that all the family try to make him.

BALLINGER DODGES

There arose Saturday in the Ballinger investigation the question of whether Ballinger should be put on stand immediately, at the request of Glavin's attorney, or should be permitted to evade examination by his own witness.
The question was important primarily because Brandeis wanted to question Ballinger on certain points of full disclosures were made at these points by other witnesses.
He pointed out that if Ballinger did not speak until he knew the extent of the evidence against him, he could frame his defense to it or explain the testimony.
There also arose a question of procedure. In an ordinary case in court, while as to an interested witness a cross examination is limited to facts opened by the direct examination, wide latitude is allowed in a cross examination of a witness who is a principal party to the action. However, this is largely with the discretion of the court, and the privilege may be curtailed by a ruling of the committee.
The ruling of the committee denying his request to have Ballinger stand upon the stand now, so as to be impossible a "frame-up" by the committee, and perhaps some of the precedents that ruling, without convincing Brandeis that his cross examination of Ballinger would be hampered by unfriendly rulings justification of which would be attempted under the rules of evidence. Chairman Nelson assured Mr. Brandeis that he would be given ample opportunity to examine Ballinger, and while the ruling is very advantageous to the accused, the fact does not convict the committee of bad faith, although inferences will be drawn. At any rate, the decision showed a division of the committee, four members voting to have Ballinger called immediately, and this fact may be taken to indicate that a whitewash cannot be secured without a minority protest.

The real importance of the demand of Mr. Brandeis for the appearance of Ballinger, the protest of Ballinger's attorney and the adverse ruling of the majority of the committee lies in the fact that Ballinger's evasion is closely akin to confession. In the start he declared he wanted no attorney and would appear when wanted, and thereafter he immediately secured an attorney. Then he revised his stand by saying he would be ready to come before the committee "at any and all times," his language further protesting his desire to give to the probe the fullest scope and the fullest information.

But when, for the first time, he was wanted to give information, he employs his attorney to evade the stand. What does it mean? He has "courted" investigation (when he saw it inevitably coming), he has displayed eagerness to get on the stand and "tell the truth." But he suddenly takes refuge in whatever immunity he can conjure up when confronted with a request for testimony. Does it not seem that discretion is inspired by conscious guilt?
It may not be pertinent to this discussion, but it is certainly of interest that when speaking of the change from Roosevelt and Garfield to Taft and Ballinger, Attorney Vertrees, Ballinger's counsel, said:
"There was a reign of men; then came a reign of law."

The effort of W. J. Ferris, president of the La Crosse Water Power company, and other business men to show a party of thirty visiting capitalists about the city, was well worth while. While these men are investors, they may never individually spend a dollar in La Crosse. But they are interested in banks and financial institutions where information about investments is sought. They have seen La Crosse, and have left it with a fine impression. If they ever speak of it, it will be to say a good word, and one good word may bring a great factory to this city.

Realization of the fact that the defeat of Cannon in the fight over the rules committee was merely a personal humiliation of the speaker, which did not, under present conditions, rob monopoly of its power to dictate legislation, is followed by a growing feeling in the house that there must be another fight, this time to a finish. The struggle is brewing now, and may break forth at any moment. Let 'er break!

The announcement of the candidacy of Frank T. Tucker, assistant attorney general of the state, that he will be a candidate for the office of attorney general to succeed Frank L. Gilbert will be received with approval. Mr. Tucker's record is an excellent one, and the public recognizes in him an official of ability and integrity meeting the demands of the office he seeks.

SPOTLIGHTS

The Elwin Strong company concludes its engagement at the La Crosse theater in Dick Ferris' four act Military Drama, Way Out West.

"THE HEART OF ALASKA"

The management of the La Crosse Theater has arranged for a special matinee for "The Heart of Alaska," the new play of the far north from the pen of Henry D. Carey. The date will be Wednesday, March 30th, and the prices for the matinee will be 25c and 50c. This company played Minneapolis last week, and reports from there state both the play and company are excellent while much stress has been laid about the wonderful and stupendous scenic production.

AL. H. WILSON

The inimitable dialect of Al. H. Wilson, the haunting tunes of his latest songs, and the excellent company supporting this well-known comedian in "Metz in Ireland" form a magnetic attraction to be seen at the La Crosse Theater on Thursday night, March 31st. Mr. Wilson is considered to be the head of his class as a German dialect comedian, and there is no denying the fact that he possesses the happy faculty of being able to create laughter. He can with equal ease carry his audience from the rippling waves of laughter to the borderland of tears with his marvellous singing voice when it is heard in the rendition of such delightful songs as "Love Thoughts," "Erin's Isle," "The Ban-shiee," "The Nightingale Song," and "Little Jimmie Murphy." In addition to the above songs, Manager Sidney R. Ellis has arranged for the introduction of the following musical numbers: "Come Back to Erin," "Father O'Flynn," "I'll Take You Back Again Kathleen," and a medley of Al. H. Wilson's famous songs with ensemble and costumes effect that includes: "The Teakettle Song," "Helen," "Winding of the Yarn," "Gretchen," "Under the Harvest Moon," and "Fairest Flower of All."

Al. H. Wilson, in his new play, "Metz in Ireland."

"MONEY AND THE GIRL"

Situations so funny, repartee so bright, complications so amusing that the management offer a prize for any one who can sit through a performance without laughing heartily a hundred times, are the features of "The Money and the Girl," a new comedy by Thomas D. Bailey, in which John E. Young comes to the La Crosse theater on Saturday, matinee and night, this week. If there are any two across the horizon of our experience, nor do we remember a comedian more magnetic, exuberant and altogether delightful than this same John E. Young was as Happy Johnny Hicks in "The Time, the Place and the Girl." In "The Money and the Girl" he has a role which calls for identically the same quality as did that of Johnny Hicks.

"MISS PATSY"

Henry W. Savage has assembled together one of the strongest companies of comedians of recent years for the presentation of "Miss Patsy," in which Gertrude Quinlan, the original slinky waitress of "The College Widow" is the bright particular feature. The company includes no less than six of the original cast of "The College Widow," including Laurence Wheat, Thomas Meighan, Adeline Dunlap, Francis Ring and Maude Earle. "Miss Patsy" comes here direct from a run of 100 performances at the Chicago Opera house. It will be presented at the La Crosse theater Sunday, April 3.

HAMMOND ACQUITTED

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

In the Spring
In the spring the young man's fancy Turns to love and like o' that;
In the spring the mind of Nancy Contemplates another nat.
In the spring the purse of father Groans and mutters many a curse—
Isn't spring-sprung-sprung a bother? Did you ever see a worse?

In the spring the mothballs glitter As they tumble from the press;
In the spring an apple fritter Causes terrible distress!
In the spring we take our tonic As directed by the wife—
In the spring the plague bubonic Gets another grip on life.

In the spring—but hold! Pazzzle! What's the use of worrying? Let the seasons roast or drizzle— Let the poets sob or sing! Let the spring fiends crow or cackle—Spring to me is but a wish For a holiday and tackle— And a basketful of fish!
—H. E. Warner, St. Paul Dispatch.

Looking Backward

On the night following the Yale-Princeton game last fall, a young man who had slipped and fallen was assisted to his feet by a passerby. "Just a little celebration of victory," the young man explained as he waved a bedraggled bit of orange and black ribbon. "But Princeton lost," the other told him. The young man looked painfully surprised for an instant. "When did you learn that?" he asked. "Why, it was on the bulletin board an hour ago," the other said. "Yale won today's game." "I wash referring," said the young man, with great dignity, "to the game of 1903."—Lippincott's.

Don't Mention It

The politest man in Boston collided violently with another man on the street. The second man was angry. "My dear sir," said the polite one with a bow, "I don't know which of us is to blame for this encounter. If I ran into you, I beg your pardon; if you ran into me, don't mention it!"—Success Magazine.

Only For Baby's Sake

"Prof. Frear of the Pennsylvania State college," said Herman B. Winter of Philadelphia, who is at the Arlington, "not so very long ago discussed in Harrisburg the eighty-three kinds of breakfast food that he recently tested for the government. 'Most of them were very good,' said Prof. Frear. 'The taste test in most cases was pleasure rather than work. To make work of it would be to act like a little boy I knew in Bellefonte.' 'This little boy's mother went the other day to a reception, leaving the baby in Jimmy's care. With an injured look Jimmy said on her return: 'Mamma, I wish you wouldn't make me mind the baby again. He was so bad that I had to eat two mince pies and half the fruit cake to amuse him.'—Washington Herald."

Cold Day in Church

In vain the tenor pleaded that he had caught a cold in his head, in consequence of an accident that had delayed the cold street car in which he had ridden to church. The leader of the choir insisted that he must sing his usual solo, but relented so far as to give him a simple hymn, and this is the way he sang it: "The bodrig light is breakin', The darkness disappears; The suds of earth are wak'ing To petiditied tears, Each breeze that sweeps the acaed Brigs tidigs frob afar, Of datidigs id cophotid Prepared for Ziod's war." The preacher gave out his text as follows: "Add Jacob said to Rebekah his brother, Behold Esau my brother is a hairy bad, add I ab a smooth bad."

Later word the collectial was taked, id was foud to codist dibes— of peddies, dickles add dibes.—Chicago Tribune.

You can make better bread and cake, in less time and with less work.

Other bread mixers are excessively hard to use, and not one of them actually kneads the dough; rolling dough around in a pail is not kneading it, and most of these machines utterly fail to work when a very small baking is tested.

The MARVEL Bread Kneader actually kneads the dough as with human hands, but with far greater speed and with but very little labor. It makes lighter bread and cake, better in every way, than when kneaded or mixed by hand. The leaflet in every sack of Marvel Flour tells how you can get it free.

Marvel Flour

has never been bleached. Government experts, after a most careful examination of bleached flour (the white kind that has been generally in use) find it contains peroxide of nitrogen; the United States Government Pure Food Commissioner ruled that "The bleaching of flour is a violation of the Pure Food Law of 1906, and will have to be discontinued." This does not wholly prevent the sale of bleached flour, for the national law cannot stop the sale of bleached flour in the state where it is made; only a state law can do that and as yet only a few states have such a law.

MARVEL is the only flour made by a large mill, which has never been bleached. It makes very light, creamy white, delicious bread that keeps moist and fresh for many days—it is wholesome nutritious and palatable.

"Oh, I'm so glad you aren't dashed to pieces!" she cried. "I've seen you falling, falling, falling, in my dreams, and never alighting! But evidently you did!"
"Yes," said he, "quite safe! But how came you here?"
"Oh, I live here," said she. "But how did you know? Or did you just happen? Shall I hide you? I'll never betray you, never! no matter what they say you've done!"
"You—belong—here?" repeated Theodore wonderingly. "Here? You—you live here?"
"Yes," said she hurriedly. "With my uncle. I couldn't endure the Shaynes and Silberbergs any longer. Why, the way they did just drives people to crime! And if you did anything, it was in open war with the officers, and not by stealth as the Shaynes and Silberbergs do. I told them so to their teeth—only you ought to reform and all that, you know. And I couldn't bear Aunt Marie any more," here the voice trembled, "though—everybody will say I'm ungrateful, and all that. And General Carson's family are all my relatives in the world, except the Shaynes. And this is their plantation—my uncle that I never saw lives here—and I came to him. I hope he won't hate me! I'd rather not have to ask him to shelter a robber than you aren't pursued. But if you are, I'll hide you before I'll see you caught. There!"
Mr. Carson recoiled back against the wall, drew his hands across his eyes, and looked again. She seemed to be there still, rather nearer than before, hands clasped in adorable anxiety, divining pity in her eyes. "I am in no danger," said he. "Pardon me for intruding here. It was by mistake. Permit me to ask the honor of an interview at a more convenient time and place."
Mr. Carson of Carson's Landing, the last of the Carsons, now spoke with some approach to manner and form as by tradition required.
"Oh, I'm so glad you are—are safe," she cried. "I want you to stay to luncheon. I can't give you any quail broth, nor strong remedies, but—"
"Thank you," he returned. "I shall esteem it an honor."
This was nearer to the conventional than anything yet. She gathered her gown about her throat, looked about at the room—and blushed. Luncheon with this girl-faced boy with the jetty mustache—compliments—they did not harmonize with the trunks spilling lingerie, the white counterpane bed.

"Perhaps," she went on, "if you really aren't afraid of being caught—you might go away, now—to the parlor, I mean."
Carson turned scarlet, bowed grandly, and walked toward the door.
"And," said she, blushing still more rosily, "if you are quite sure you don't mind—please leave me—my corset."
Mr. Carson looked down at his hand, saw with unspeakable horror that he had held, during the whole colloquy, the Psyche mold, dropped it hastily, and rushed inconspicuously from the room in an agony of mind quite out of proportion to the real damage done by his involuntary act. He did not run and drown himself in Fish River, but when he tried to divine what Virginia's theory as to his purpose in taking possession of the garment in the first place must be, he felt like doing so rather than meeting her at luncheon. It was a terrible situation.

CHAPTER VIII.

At the Margin of Safety.
"Of course, it's a shock," said Miss Suarez, "to find you—"
"I am sorry," said Theodore, "to have shocked you by being visible. I—"
"Oh, now," said Miss Suarez. "Try to supply ellipses—and those things. I meant, to find you so—"
"So incapable of—so lacking in the qualities of—of—of—"
"You're gradually getting closer to it," commented Virginia. "Our danger, where there is nobody hanging about to sort of mitigate—no, not that—to—to—"
"To absorb and diffuse the shock," suggested the engineer.
"The very word," said she. "Why, uncle, you're clever—once in a while!"
"Thank you, Miss Virginia! I—"
"Don't interrupt, please. Our danger here in the wilderness, is that of not catching the shades of expression, the nuances one has to have ground into one's system with regard to one's friends—if nuances can be ground into anything—and that we'll misunderstand, and fight, and pull hair needlessly. Doesn't that cover the case?"
"While a very concise statement of some of the dangers," said he, "I don't think it does, quite. But you were saying I lack some quality. Please go on."

"The quality of unclehood," said she. "You don't create the role. I suppose my image of a charming young robber—for you're not bad looking, uncle—you know?"
Theodore blushed, but strove to keep on a high and avuncular plateau of platitudes.
"Piracy and yeggism, and those things, are so incompatible with one's only surviving live-with-able uncle," said Virginia.
"In The Babes in the Woods," said Theodore, "the uncle was quite that sort."
"I thought you were going to make another application," said she. "The odd thing with us—I like living with you immensely—is that, you seem a Babe in the Woods more than an uncle, and I the other."

"I scarcely think—" began Mr. Carson.
"Oh, I know you're venerable," she assured him, "or you wouldn't have invented so much. But after tumbling out of that crazy helicopter at your feet, and being treated—you know what I mean—and being put to bed after that potion; and read to about dynamos—that was quite uncleship—and your carrying me home, and going north in the Roc, and acting so lofty and silly—and dear!—with Silberberg, until his beaky old nose bled, and jumping off the ship miles above a rocky and barbed and spiky country in the night and storm—and I feeling so superior, as one does to a brigand—and rather making a hero of you—and then to find you my uncle, with a little, silky, kid's mustache—isn't there an incongruity? Surely you can understand—"
"Perfectly," said Theodore, ignoring the frivolous things. "What I wish you to understand, is how honored I am to be your guardian—even though I don't deserve it."
"Oh, but do you!" said she. "You began babying me when I tumbled down. And if you aren't a Methusalem, there's the Carson blood, isn't there?"
"There's the Carson blood," assented Theodore uneasily. "And the trust that blood alone couldn't confer."
"And the relationship must stand in the place of years," said Virginia. "For I can't go back to the Shaynes. I'm afraid they'll find me, and make me—"
"You shall not go back!" said Theodore. "Never!"
"My, my!" said Virginia. "How fierce, uncle! And now, let's go fishing."

The announcement of the appointment of Joseph H. Lutiger to the position of day yardmaster at the Milwaukee yards on the north side to succeed Joseph A. Emerson, resigned, was made today, and comes as no surprise to the railroad men of past has held the position of night car clerk at the north side station.

NORTH SIDE HAS A PRAIRIE FIRE

Fire department No. 4 was called out yesterday afternoon about 2:00 o'clock to extinguish a blaze in a dock near the site of the old Sawyer and Austin mill. Fifteen hundred feet of hose was laid to the scene of the fire and the firemen today state that the pressure at the time was so weak that it was difficult to force a stream of water fifteen feet. Suddenly the fire leaped across the Milwaukee tracks at that place and igniting the dry grass began to sweep across the space towards the houses about two blocks away. A second alarm was turned in and department No. 2 responded.

The blaze was kept away from the houses and serious damage was averted. For a time, with the high wind blowing, the fire looked dangerous. It was extinguished about 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

POCKETBOOK WAS NOT PURLOINED

Missing Purse Is Located
After Search, Behind a Drawer in the Bureau

A pocketbook containing $15.05,
the property of Mrs. John Desmond, 1126 Caledonia street, which was missed by the owner Saturday, and which was reported as a daring theft by a female Raffles in an evening newspaper of this city, was found after a few minutes' search in the same drawer where it had been placed by the owner.

When interviewed this morning,
John Desmond stated that the purse had been placed in the bureau drawer and that when the drawer had been pulled out the pocketbook had in some matter fallen behind it. He stated that there were no suspicious circumstances in connection with the affair that would lead one to believe it to be a robbery. After a few min-

Owing to the fact that Rev. W. P.

Witter, pastor of the North Side very favorably commented upon by those present.

MUST VOTE FIRST ON THE DIVISION

The petition from the town of Farmington for a division of the township into two towns, will not be presented to the county board at its Wednesday meeting, for the reason that the town first must vote on the proposition. The vote is taken then by the county board and the power remains with the supervisors to ratify the vote or reverse it, as the board chooses.

Says New Major

"My earlier training as an engineer was under General Alexander Mackenzie, the best friend the Mississippi ever had, and my sympathies, putting aside my efforts as a matter of duty, naturally are with that highway in the attainment of all its warm supporters and advocates may hope for it."

This is what Major Charles Kellar, transferred to take the place of Major Charles S. Riche, in charge of the Upper Mississippi improvement work says in the way of throwing light on his attitude toward river improvement.

"It is most gratifying to me to have been reassigned to Rock Island station for various reasons, chiefly, of course, in that it brings me back in an advanced capacity, officially, to a work to which I was interestedly devoted in my earlier years as a government officer. The personnel of the corps will not be disturbed on account of the change in chiefs and I apprehend the same rule will hold good at Detroit, where Major Riche, my successor, will be surrounded by the efficient force that I have left."

Will Keep Up Pace

"The friends of waterways in the Mississippi valley need not be alarmed that there is to be any abandonment of development plans by reason of the departure of the officer who has been in charge the past five years. Major Riche it is true, has done much for the upbuilding of the Mississippi, and has made an excellent record. I will admit he has set a difficult pace for his successor, but the plans laid out by Major Riche, where they have the sanction of the war department, will be carried out to the letter by me."

They wanted "Cheap Stuff at able me to do my best, I needed bet-have added another room to my suite of offices and have the most scientific appliances for making glasses, that correct errors of refraction and remove the cause for eyestrain and headache, that money

Wearing common lenses with metal mountings do no good to your eyes. The lenses must be ground with a certain curve that will bend

the rays of light so that the images on the retina of the eyes will be correctly formed, without any distortion.

This requires skill in handling the instruments to find out what curve is needed to correct the error of re-

The proof of my skill is known by over five thousand people wearing the proper glasses fitted by me.

Captain Thompson Expects to Start Six-Foot Project within Next

Few Weeks

Within the next few weeks, or as soon as the river and harbor appropriation bill has passed congress, the work will be started on the six-foot channel project between here and Winona, and the work is expected to be completed in two years, according to a statement made by Capt. W. A. Thompson.

"The six-foot channel project is practically completed from Winona to La Moille," said Captain Thompson, "and this season it will be continued down the river. In carrying on this work we extend the old dams and build new ones where it is found necessary, and in places where we find gravel bars considerable dredging will have to be done. The channel will be 625 feet wide from Winona to Genoa, where it will be widened to 700 feet, to a point north of the Wisconsin river. The dames L. Chryst, Hengeveld and R. Blake. The evening was passed in a social manner and refreshments were served.

The captains in the other districts on the upper river will also work on the six-foot project this summer.

Captain Du Shane will work in the vicinity of Alma, but his operations will be somewhat different from those in Captain Thompson's district in that it will not be as continuous but more detached, due to the condition of the river at that section.

The work on this much talked about project will be made possible by the increased appropriation for river and harbor improvements.

Heretofore the river and harbors bill has carried an appropriation of $500,000 for the upper Mississippi river, while the bill now pending in the senate has been increased to $1-000,000. The bill has already passed the house and it is said that the commerce committee is nearly ready to report to the senate. The senate bill has incorporated a provision for the construction of the high dam between St. Paul and Minneapolis, at one end of which will be locks, thus increasing the water power to be obtained at that point. The proposition is to complete the entire six-foot channel project on the Mississippi river within 12 years for which the government will appropriate

$20,000,000.

Captain Thompson says that if the bill passes, which no doubt it will, extensive improvements will be made in the plant in this district. It will be necessary to double the plant on the river by the construction of new boats and barges. Many more men will be given employment with the river improvement department.

Today Captain Thompson is in Rock Island, where he is holding a conference with Major Keller with reference to improvement work to be done during the coming season.

ROOSEVELT TALK INVITES DANGER

Disregarding All Warnings
He Tells Students of University that Murder Is Abhorrent Act

(By a Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

CAIRO, March 28.—Disregarding all warnings against any further ruffling of the feelings of the nationalists, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in his address at the university of Egypt today took "a four square" stand for law enforcement and denounced the recent assassination of Boutros Pasha, the premier in such vigorous fashion as to surprise even those who knew of the colonel's fearlessness.

The nationalists are charged with the responsibility for Boutros' assassination and many of his hearers winced under the colonel's denunciation of the crime. Despite the fact that many of the faculty and students of the university are in sympathy with the nationalist movement there was so much in Roosevelt's address that appealed to enlighten Egyptians of whatever political party, that the speech made a great hit and brought out applause during its delivery and warmest congratulations after he had finished. The expression that pleased his hearers most was the use of the Arabic proverb:

"Allah ma el saberin izza sabern," which means "God is with the patient if they know how to wait."

Talks Plainly

The nearest that Roosevelt came to repeating his Khartoum advice that the rule of England was proving beneficial to Egypt and should be upheld and which caused widespread mutterings of discontent among the nationalists, was his statement that "It will not make people self governing merely to give them a constitution no matter how admirable a document it may be. There must be the training of the people to fit them for the constitution. This is usually a slow though steady development."

Roosevelt led up to the assassination of Boutros Pasha by declaring that "it is necessary that we have the spirit to condemn every form of lawlessness and evil."

Abhors Assassins

"The assassin is a type possessing all the qualities most alien to good citizenship. The type produces poor soldiers in time of war and worse citizens in times of peace. Such a man stands at the very pinnacle of evil and infamy. Those who apologize for the assassination or who by word or deed directly or indirectly encourage it afterwards, stand on the same bad eminence."

"It is of no consequence whether the act was committed in political or industrial warfare, whether the rich hired it done and the poor executed it, whether it was committed under the pretense of preserving order or obtaining liberty, it is equally abhorrent in the eyes of all decent men, and in the long run equally damaging."

Disregarded Warning

It developed after the address that an attempt was made to have the colonel omit certain of his paragraphs which were deemed a little too strong for an Egyptian audience, but he refused to listen to his advisers.

Guides Follow Him

Mr. Roosevelt encountered a pleasant surprise at noon today when 20 of his native gun barbers and tent boys whom he thought he had left behind forever for up the Nile, visited him at Sheppard's hotel. The natives were headed by Kermit Roosevelt. They told the colonel that they could not resist the desire to see him once more and had come on to Cairo by marches and boat and train rides. The colonel "blew" the natives to a feast at another hotel.

CAN RAWLINSON PAY OUT BOUNTY?

Because he cannot find a provision in the law for paying out crow bounties where the crows are killed within the city limits County Clerk Charles Rawlinson is refusing to make payment when the crows are presented. A bounty of fifteen cents is provided and many are being killed, but in the state law there is a procedure provided only for towns and villages, and nothing is said about the manner in which such bounties shall be paid in cities.

Under the old law a certificate from the supervisor in whose ward the animal or bird was killed signed a certificate to the clerk but the law of 1907 amended this and failed to mention procedure in cities. La Crosse pays bounties on crows and rattlesnakes, wolves, wildcats and lynx under this law.

MRS. KEIZER DEAD OF GENERAL DECLINE

Mrs. Mary Keizer, aged 82 years, died at the home of her son, J. E. Keizer, 1349 West avenue south, yesterday. Deceased was born in Holland and came to La Crosse county in 1865. She had been a resident of the vicinity of Midway and Onalaska since then, until last August, when she came to this city to live with her son. She is survived by seven children. The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the residence and at 3 o'clock at the Onalaska Methodist church.

SCHROEDER FINED FOR CONTEMPT

Hands Out a Wrathful Line of Talk in Bangor Trial, and Judge Nelson fines
Him $5.00

BANGOR, Wis., March 28.—(Special.)—A mimic legal battle in which Fritz Schroeder, a member of the La Crosse county poor commission, was fined for contempt of court in the court of Justice August Nelson, has furnished material for "own topics" in Bangor this week.

Mr. Schroeder, who has a farm near the village, had the misfortune to lose a horse, and complaining that the animal had not been properly buried a neighbor had him haled into justice court. Mr. Schroeder felt aggrieved and losing his temper is said to have handed out to the court a line of talk which made Justice Nelson's hair rise in wrath. He straightway fined Mr. Schroeder $5 for contempt of court. At the conclusion of the trial the justice imposed a fine of $5 which with the costs amounted to $14, after which, it is said, both the horse and the hatchet were buried.

"Y" BOYS START A HIKING TRIP

A party of twenty-five Y. M. C. A. boys under the leadership of C. F. Ogden, the boys' secretary, left the city at 7 o'clock this morning on a hiking trip that will cover two days. Taking the car line to Onalaska they will hike it afoot to Trempealeau Bay, a distance of twenty-two miles. Trempealeau Bay lies three miles above Trempealeau and is the prospective camp site for the summer camp of the boys' department. After remaining at the bay over night they will begin the return trip to La Crosse, expecting to reach here sometime tomorrow afternoon. Each fellow is equipped with a haversack which is strapped to his back and carries enough provisions for the trip, besides a blanket in which to roll up in and sleep in a big barn tonight. Those making up the party are as follows: Emil Krause, Alfred Erickson, James Taylor, Arthur Dornbach, Albert Wierbrecht, Abe Goldberg, Theo. Taylor, Theo. Garder, Albert Heller, Albert Sabelwitz, John Ford, John Robinson, Stuart Jehlen, Earl Brandenburg, Harold Stavrum, Ralph Scott, Roy Weigel, Carl Buest, Raymond Huebner, Kenneth Dickens, Adolph Youngberg, Alvah Hill, Earl Lockman, Carl Ogden and Will Wagner.

The special Easter program of music at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting yesterday afternoon was one of exceptional merit and was greatly enjoyed by all the men present. Those participating in the program were Professors Packman, Andre, and Kerr and Miss Gage, Mrs. Gran and the Wesley quartette, composed of Messrs. Ed Best, Earl Lockman, John Otten and Russell Oakes. Many of the men were so impressed with the message of song that they requested another service soon of a similar nature.

HOTEL DOERING HAS FIRE SCARE

Believing the building to be afire, many of the guests at the Hotel Doering were awakened at 5:30 o'clock this morning, when the upper floors filled with smoke, the result of a fire which started in the kitchen. A fire was started in the kitchen range and a quantity of towels and other clothing was hung around it to dry. The hostler, who started the fire, went into the barn for a few minutes and during his absence the clothes caught afire and, together with the wooden racks on which they were hanging, started to burn, filling the building with smoke. The screams of one of the women on one of the upper floors, alarmed all the guests, who dressed and hurried down stairs. The fire department was called but the fire was extinguished with pails of water before the firemen reached the scene. The damage is small.

ROOSEVELT MAY REPUDIATE TAFT

Longworth's Attitude Said to Have Resulted from a Letter Written His Father-in-Law

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—A story that ex-President Roosevelt is putting his house in order so that he will not be hampered if he should decide not to endorse the Taft administration created considerable commotion at the capital today.

That Representative Longworth (R., Ohio,) refused to serve again on the congressional campaign committee in response to a letter from his father-in-law, stating that he preferred that the family not be placed in a position that might make it embarrassing for him later, is the statement upon which the story hinges.

Longworth today declined to affirm or deny that he had received such a letter. He had served on the committee for six years, he said, and retired for reasons of his own. He had not made public these reasons at the time he refused re-election to the committee and would not do so now.

It is declared today that when Longworth heard Cannon was opposed to his selection for the new rules committee he told his friends he would serve on the committee if selected by the republican caucus but that he would under no circumstances accept a place on the committee as a gift from Cannon.

MAY ONLY PATCH DEFECT IN JAIL

Chairman W. F. Baker of the county committee on grounds and buildings has arranged for the repair of the hole cut in the north wall of the county jail by the three prisoners who escaped Saturday morning. Mr. Baker expects to have the repairs made with concrete, which can less easily be removed in the future.

Asked what arrangements would be made to strengthen the walls around these windows, called by the sheriff's office a weak point in the construction, the chairman declared this would be up to the county board. A resolution asking to have it strengthened may be introduced. The fault is with the construction, says Chairman Baker, and it was not intended that desperate criminals should be allowed in this corridor. To insert another chilled steel bar between the present walls and window bars would be difficult and expensive, according to the chairman, and it is not known whether the county board will authorize this improvement.

TUCKER OUT FOR ATTY. GENERAL

fourth year as assistant attorney general.

Perhaps the most conspicuous public service as assistant attorney general was that in which he was sent by the governor to investigate lawless conditions at Hurley graphically described in the newspapers of that time as "perfect hell." Hurley was a seething den of vice in the profits of which public officials there participated, and Mr. Tucker followed his investigation with a prosecution which resulted in the removal from office of the sheriff and district attorney for neglect of duty. In addition to this, Mr. Tucker has represented the state in many important cases in various counties.

LA CROSSE DOGS WIN HIGH PRIZES

This was a large show and competition was open to the world.

MURDERS WIFE AFTER A QUARREL

Beautiful Woman Found on Banker's Estate with Throat Slashed by a Kitchen Case Knife

BALTIMORE, Md., March 28.—The body of Mrs. Jos. A. Merrick with the throat cut from ear to ear and numerous gashes on the neck and breast was found today on the beautiful estate of Banker Alexander Brown. There was evidence that the woman had been murdered. Shortly before noon Jos. A. Merrick was arrested as a suspect.

The police say Merrick had been estranged from his wife for a long time. The two are reported to have been seen together yesterday near the spot where the body was found. The meeting ended in a quarrel.

Merrick will be arraigned later in the day. The police say a bloody handkerchief was found in his pocket.

The body was found by Julia Childs, a colored maid in the Brown house. She reported the discovery to the superintendent of the Forest Park reservoir who notified the police. The body lay on an eminence about 100 yards from a stream that runs through the estate. The ground about the body was blood soaked. There was a trail of blood also from the body to the stream, indicating that the woman's assailant hurt himself in the struggle. The murderer undoubtedly went to the stream to wash away the evidences of the crime. Scores of police and detectives went to work immediately on the case and shortly before noon they rounded up the husband of the woman and arrested him as he was walking leisurely along the street.

Merrick denied any knowledge of his wife's death.

The woman was slain with an ordinary kitchen knife. A broken blade found at the bottom of the stream testified to the ferocity of the attack.

MAY HAVE JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

That Iver Anderson, the man found dead near Rockland, yesterday, beside the tracks of the Milwaukee road, may have jumped to his death is the story related at Sparta today by a fellow passenger on the train. The man in a short interview with a correspondent, stated that one of two men who were suarrelling on the train as it was pulling out of Rockland, pulled a revolver. Anderson seized his suit case and ran to the end of the smoker, being presumably frightened although he had no part in the affair. That was the last seen of him and it is thought that he either fell or jumped off the train.

His body was sent to Viroqua this afternoon for interment.

MAD BULL CREATES MUCH EXCITEMENT

Jumping out of a wagon at the city scales, attacking a pony and then madly rushing down the street and finally dashing into the river, a mad bull created much excitement this afternoon. The animal was owned by Ben Johnson, a Minnesota farmer, who brought the bull to this city for Langdon & Boyd. At the city scales it jumped out of the wagon and ran away. Several men rescued the beast by the use of ropes and safely took it to the packing establishment.

TOUCHES LOOT, HE CONCEIVES CRIME

John Murphy Probably Did Not Intend to Steal the Shoes Until They were Handed Him

George Petrick stopped at the street display before the Paulson shoe store and picking up a pair of shoes was looking them over. John Murphy came from across the street and walking up to the display asked:

"Going to buy a pair of shoes?"

"No," said Petrick, and handed the shoes he was inspecting to Murphy, and walked on up the street.

Judge Brindley who this morning sentenced Murphy to thirty days and freed Petrick, believes Murphy had no intention of stealing the shoes until he left them in his hand and saw no one around. He then conceived the idea of walking off with them, and did so. He hid them behind the store, and later when an officer came to look for them he showed the policeman where they were.

On the stand this morning he swore Petrick walked off with the foot coverings, but evidence to the contrary convinced the court Murphy was guilty and Petrick innocent. The case was adjourned Saturday afternoon until this morning.

He killed her. Then, to make assurance doubly sure, he tied a piece of rope round her neck and twisted it fiendishly, so that it cut deep into the flesh.

"Realizing what he had done, the murdered sought to hide the evidence of this crime."

"He doubled up the girl's body, with her knees under her chin and tied it together with a piece of wire. Then he built a big charcoal fire in the grate and kept it going with oil. He tried to thrust the girl's body in but it was too large."

Carved the Body

"An examination of the girl's body shows that the brute then took a knife and cut away the flesh of the legs at the thigh, until the bone was reached. Then he literally broke the bones by bending them, probably over his knee. Our examination proves that the bones were broken, not sawed. Then he cut off the flesh of the arms and broke them off, dismembering the body, which he then tried to burn up."

"He did burn the arms and legs completely up, though we have found to bones in the fire place. The torso did not burn so easily, and he placed it in a burlap bag wrapped in a shirt."

An Accusing Bag

"Katchen Mueller admitted to us that the burlap bag had long been in the apartment as a rug in front of the kitchen stove."

"Why were there no blood stains in the flat if the body was dismembered there?" Coroner Holtzhauser was asked.

"There were blood stains—lots of them," he said. "The assailant probably spread paper out on the floor before he cut up the body and in that way kept blood off parts of the carpet. But in front of the newly painted fireplace the old carpet had been freshly washed with water to remove the stains. That part of the carpet was clean; the rest was filthy. We are examining the stains now."

The girl's torso will be examined microscopically by Prof. John H. Larkin of the college of physicians and surgeons to ascertain whether the girl was assaulted.

Wants Her to be Still

Wolter was told today that the Mueller girl had said she was going to do some talking if he did not make a complete statement showing her innocence.

"Did she say that?" he asked. "If she did, she does not think how it sounds. Please tell her to shut up or tell her I said to tell the truth and she will know what I mean."

Under a severe cross examination the Mueller girl added another link to the chain of circumstantial evidence with which the police are surrounding Wolter.

Saw Him at Crime

"When I got home Thursday night, I went to bed as I told you," she said, "but about midnight I was awakened by a crash in the front room. I called out: 'Who's there,' and Albert answered telling me part of the fireplace had fallen down and he was fixing it. He told me to go to sleep."

"About 2 o'clock another noise awoke me. I jumped up and ran to the connecting door. Albert was on his knees in front of the fire place, apparently shoving something in the grate. I offered to help him but he ordered me back to bed saying if I did not go he would choke me to death."

Coroner's Inquest

A coroner's inquest will probably be held this afternoon. This will be a mere formality and Wolter will be remanded to the Tombs without bail to await grand jury action.

VERTREES TELLS TAFT

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.—For more than an hour today before the presidents departure for New York John J. A Splendid Nerve Which Any One Can Make One of the most effective nerve remedies to be had is a very plain household article which can easily be prepared at home in a few minutes. It is a splendid thing for any nervous disorder, such as nervous headache, sleeplessness, neuralgia or plain "nervousness."

From any druggist get five cents worth of Hops and 2 ounces of Thargol Compound. Make a strong tea of the Hops by steeping in a pint of boiling water; strain thoroughly. Put the Thargol in an eight-ounce bottle (exactly half pint) and fill it up with the Hop Tea. The usual dose is two teaspoonfuls four times daily.

This simple combination soothes and strengthens the nerves and is very prompt in its action, without evil after effects. It is entirely safe to take because it contains no opiates, narcotics or other dangerous drugs. Even in serious diseases, such as nervous prostration, it is a really excellent remedy. The cost is only about 55 cents and it is well worth trying.

Be sure to use the ingredients given above, because no other extracts or compounds will have the same effect. Better clip this article as a reminder.

The police were notified and the arrest followed. The horse is reported to be very lame.

Upon receiving his ballot the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or interfere in any manner whom to vote.

(b) If a voter wished to vote for another person in place of a candidate whose name appears on the ballot, he may insert or write in the

WOULD SEE TEDDY IN WHITE HOUSE

Americans in Cairo Express the Hope that He will Again Occupy Presidential Chair

(By a Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

CAIRO, Egypt, March 28.—If the 700 Americans in Cairo had the election of the next president of the United States in their hands, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt would return to the White house by a practically unanimous vote. These Americans, many of whom have been drawn to Cairo by the presence of Mr. Roosevelt, made known their presidential sentiments today in an unmistakable way at a morning reception in the garden terrace of Sheppard's hotel. Aside from the setting the affair was more like a White house reception than anything the colonel had encountered since quitting Washington.

While awaiting Mr. Roosevelt's appearance on the terrace, the crowd sang "America," which seemed to put the colonel in a happy frame of mind.

Glad to Hear "America." "I am not going to make a speech to you," he began after the vigorous round of applause and cheers that greeted his appearance had subsided. "But I want to tell you how glad I am to hear that song so far from home. It's a great song at home, but to hear it over here in Africa sung by so many loyal Americans, gives it an added meaning. Now I want to shake hands with you all. I'm glad to see you, glad to be on my way home, glad to have had a fine hunt and glad that every lion did not do his duty."

The last reference was to the sentiment which the colonel himself declared Wall street felt toward his African hunt and evoked a tumult of laughter.

Shake the Colonel's Hand. Then, just as the crowds at the White house used to pass down the line to shake his hand, these ex-patriated Americans were presented to Mr. Roosevelt. He had a cheery word for everyone and fully five out of seven remarked to the colonel that the next time they saw him they hoped it would be in the White house.

Not one of these references to the White house, however, drew a reply from Mr. Roosevelt. One man from Kansas voiced his sentiments in a stronger fashion by declaring loudly enough for everyone in the party to hear it: "I hope, Mr. Roosevelt, when you get back to America you will straighten up President Taft."

Avoids Political References. The remark might as well have been addressed to the nearby Sphinx as far as eliciting a reply from the colonel was concerned. The cleverness he had shown in avoiding all political discussions and preventing any little remark to escape him which might reveal his opinions makes it apparent that there will be no political utterance from him until after his return to America.

TO ERECT STATUE OF FATHER MARQUETTE

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., March 28.—(Special.)—The Business Men's association has gotten out a large supply of photographs made by James Paris from the cut furnished by Architect Fred Herr of Dubuque of the proposed statue of Father Marquette, which will be erected in the grounds of St. Mary's academy.

It is hoped that the foundation and base of the statue will be in place by June 17th, the 237th anniversary of the discovery of the Mississippi by Father Marquette. The base will be of Bedford stone and will bear an inscription reading:

WISCONSIN'S TRIBUTE
James Marquette, S. J.
Who with Louis Joliet Discovered the Mississippi River at Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, June 17, 1673.

The base will be erected at a cost of $1,200, defrayed by popular subscription. The column surmounting the base is of granite, a Greek Corinthian, 18 feet in height, and has been presented by the C. M. & St. P. R. way company. The statue will be a copy of the one by G. Trentanove, placed by the state of Wisconsin in the Hall of Fame at the national capitol in Washington and will be furnished by the sisters of Notre Dame.

It is proposed to make June 17th, 1910, a gala day in this city, when hundreds will come to attend the exercises connected with the dedication of this monument. The Business Men's association have taken the matter in hand and will secure the ablest oratorical talent for the dedicatory address. Marquette clubs in every section of the state will be invited to attend the ceremonies.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Business Men's association will take place Friday evening at the council chambers.

HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES possesses a rare power of imparting a quivering intensity to all she writes. Her characters are creatures of fiery hearts. Her style dips into all the fountain heads of emotional language; it glows and palpitates. Her situations rivet the attention, stir up the nerves, play upon the feelings, arouse a personal concern or a personal antagonism. You unconsciously regard every character as a real person. You take sides.

Her New Romance

All this is true in an unparalleled degree of The Kingdom of Slender Swords, her new romance of the American colony in Tokyo. It owns other amazingly striking qualities. Its plot is romantically intricate, but so wonderfully articulated that all the sensational incidents are prepared for and made plausible.

Pure in Passion

Especially in her love story does Miss Rives sweep the reader compellingly with her, so sweet it is, so transcendently pure in its passion. And, by the deftness of a consummate art, the richness and strange fascination of Oriental scenery are called upon to impart an exotic charm to the dramatic affair of this American man and woman.

First and Foremost a Story

But, excellently done as the story is from this important point of view, it is still, first and foremost, a story. It is a story of love, of endeavor, of sacrifice, of triumph.

Barbara Randolph,

from Virginia, is the leading lady, but little Haru, her maid, whose name means Spring, who wears a butterfly in her hair, and who speaks with delightful quaintness, is the heroine. In her silent devotion, her humiliation, her final abnegation, we see exemplified the wonderful reverence for country that is to be seen nowhere else in the world.

Hearts Courageous

The versatility of Hallie Erminie Rives is cause for astonishment. No other novelist of our time covers so wide a range. Her first great popular success, Hearts Courageous, had to do with the early days of the American Revolution.

The Castaway

Its successor, The Castaway, was built about the proud and passionate figure of Lord Byron, and its romantic scenes were laid in England, in Italy, and Greece.

Satan Sanderson

Then came Satan Sanderson, a story of today, a story of the West, full of vigorous Western action, but drawing its chief interest from a peculiar psychological problem of forgotten identity.

The Kingdom of Slender Swords

And now her latest story carries us to far Japan—not so far, either, in these days which have brought Nippon near to us in sympathy and admiration.

This is her real distinction; not that she writes of many places, many times, many characters, but that she writes of them without superficiality.

HIGHS DEFEAT THE ALUMNI PLAYERS

Score Is 47 to 14 and High Boys Have the Best of it at All Stages of the Contest

Outplaying their opponents at all stages of the game, the high school basketball team defeated the alumni Saturday night by the score of 47 to 14.

At no time was the result in doubt, as the high school five went right in when the whistle blew. Their team work was fine, and their shooting accurate, apparently scoring at will. Signals went off smoothly, and their playing indicated that the present high school team is one of the best ever turned out here.

Ralph Bradish again played a fine game both defensively and offensively, scoring six field and eleven free throws, for a total of twenty-three points. In addition to this he held his man throughout, and very few baskets were made off him.

Although they played a good game, the alumni showed a lack of team work, due to the fact that they had not played together before. "Swede" Dahlgren and Chas. Bradish played good games for their team, and did most of the scoring.

R. Bradish started the scoring by making a field basket shortly after the whistle blew, and the remainder of this half as well as the last one was high school all the way. At the end of the first half the score stood 22 to 10 and in the next part the high school increased their lead. The alumni guards could not hold their forwards, in addition to which R. Bradish, at guard, counted heavily in the scoring, making several baskets of the sensational order. His throwing of free throws was a feature of the game.

The teams lined up as follows: High school—Forwards, E. Chamberlain and C. Hyde; center, R. Keeler; guards, R. Bradish and F. Shaw. Alumni—Forwards, C. Bradish and A. Werner; center, A. Dahlgren; guards, H. Davis and F. Dickens.

Field baskets—R. Bradish, 6; Hyde, 3; Chamberlain, 6; Keeler, 3; Werner, 1; Dahlgren, 2; Dickens, 1; C. Bradish, 1. Free throws—R. Bradish, 11; C. Bradish, 3; Dickens, 1. Referee—Hale Stowe.

Seniors Win Preliminaries
As a preliminary game, the senior and junior class teams played for the class championship, the seniors winning 17 to 8. The score at the end of the first half was 4 to 4, but towards the end of the last half, the seniors wore out their opponents and gained a lead which could not be overcome. Both teams played rough games and time had to be taken out frequently, as slight hurts were received almost continually.

This gives the seniors the class championship, their record being seven won and none lost. The losing team put up a good fight, and at the beginning of the first half looked like winners, as they had a four point lead at the start. However, the last half was too much for them, as they could not stand the pace set by their heavier opponents.

The lineup was as follows: Seniors—Forwards, V. Jacobson and E. Krause; center, I. Tiedeman; captain; guards, R. Schlabach and H. Hunderdmark. Juniors—Forwards, R. Sidensohl captain, and A. Erickson; center, C. Bovee; guards, A. Weimar and W. Shirley.

Referee—R. Bradish.
Will Go to Appleton
It has been decided that the high school basketball team will go to the state championship meet at Appleton, as a letter was received in which they were urged to come. The main reason for the decision not to go was because Stavrum and Walker, forwards, were sick, but word has been received from the latter saying that he was fit to play, and the former has recovered from his attack of bronchitis. This will give La Crosse their regular team, and it is expected that they will make a good showing as they did at Madison.

The locals will probably leave on

WORLD TOUR SIX DAYS AFTER BOUT

If He Wins, Jeff and Athletic Stars will Start the Longest Trip of its Kind; only Champs Go

CHICAGO, March 28.—Six days after he wins his battle with Jack Johnson—if he does win the battle—James J. Jeffries and his galaxy of pugilistic and wrestling stars will begin their world tour. This was announced today by Sam Berger, Jeffries' business manager, and H. H. Frazee, who is backing the tour.

Berger says Jeffries will open his show July 10 and play sixty days in the United States before starting for Europe. Berger says James J. Corbett and Frank Gotch are the only members of the show definitely selected. Berger would like to take Stanley Ketchel and Ad Wolgast also but declines to sign them up because he fears they may be defeated before July 4. He wants none but champions.

"But suppose Johnson knocks Jeffries out?" Berger was asked. "Not a chance of it," he replied. "Jeff is already under the wire. It is simply impossible for him to lose. And I can tell you, too, that Jeffries will not retire again, when he wins this time, as long as there is a black man to dispute the title."

LEFTY BYERS BACK TO WINONA TEAM

William Byers, last year one of the fastest left handed pitchers in the Minny league, has been repurchased from Mike Cantillon of the Minneapolis club by Joe Killian, and has signed to play with the Crabbers again this year.

The Winona team will meet the Havana Cubs in a series of exhibition games at Winona next month. The park is in excellent condition and is being improved for the year.

PITCHER IS NOW AN EDUCATOR

Prof. T. R. Cole, the star pitcher for the La Crosse baseball team when this city had a franchise in the Wisconsin State league, has been appointed assistant superintendent of public instruction to succeed Prof. C. R. Frazier in the state of Minnesota. Mr. Cole is a graduate of Upper Iowa university and De Pauw university. He has many friends in this city.

MALLOY SIGNS A CLEVER BACKSTOP

Manager M. Malloy of the Red Wing club of the Wisconsin-Minnesota league at Milwaukee Saturday on his return trip from Chicago, signed Siggie Krogstad, the promising young backstop. Krogstad did clever work in 1909 with the Gas Lights, a Milwaukee semi-pro team.

MICHIGAN WINS MEET

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 28.—The Michigan-Cornell indoor track meet here Saturday night resulted in the following score on points: Michigan 54 1-3, Cornell 17 2-3.

A girl is sorry if she can't marry the man of her choice, and sometimes she is sorry if she does.

Wednesday, as the first games will be played Thursday night. In this meet a team can lose two games before being disqualified, and in this way it is easier for a five to keep in the race for honors. This will give the locals a chance to battle for the state championship, and it is sure that they will be able to hold their own against any five which they may meet. On account of their fine showing at Madison, the authorities sent a special letter urging the La Crosse team to compete, and this is a sure sign that they possess class.

All but Winona and Wausau Vote Favorably on the Dates; Complaints to Be Satisfied

President Elliott of the Minny league this morning stated that all the clubs in the league, with the exception of Winona and Wausau, had approved the schedule with a few minor changes. Wausau and Winona have objections to make, but Mr. Elliott states that the points they fail to approve of can easily be changed. It is expected that the playing dates will all be announced by the end of the week.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 28.-Little occurred over the holidays to influ- ence sentiment materially in the stock market but the further pro- gress made toward adjusting labor disputes led many traders to take the bull side. There was an accum- ulation of moderate volume of buying orders in Union Pacific, which sent the price up 3-4 on the initial dealings and the strength of this stock induced some buying else- where in the list with the result that the majority of shares were slightly better.

11 a. m.-The earlier rise failed to create any enthusiasm and during the middle of the morning an organ- ized bear assault was noted, di- rected especially against the copper shares. Amalgamated Copper lost its early gain and sold off 1 3-4 points. Commission house dealings were the smallest in weeks. Steel common and General Electric were both off. The railroad shares held fairly well, under the pressure.

Government bonds unchanged; others dull.

Noon-The bear element retained its control during the entire morning. Westinghouse declined 4 points on rumors of efforts to force radical changes in the manage- ment of the company. All the room traders were bearish and sentiment was against any real upward move- ment for the time at least.

2 p. m.-After the entire list had lost from 1 to 5 points, the market became steadier and there were some very slight recoveries. There were, however, evidences of commission house liquidation and the recovery was hardly held.

The market closed weak, and un- settled.

Grain Letter

CHICAGO, March 28.-Wheat traders began the day in very bullish frame of mind, July wheat which closed at 107 7-8, Saturday opened 108 1-2 to 108 7-8 and a little later sold 109 to 1-8. September was around 105 5-8 on Saturday's break and the trading this morning was from 106 1-2 to 106 7-8, the new crop months about 1 1-4 over Saturday's close at best points of the morning. The volume of outside trade is still disappointing.

Corn traders indulged in a buy- ing flurry at the opening largely because of the strength in wheat.

Prices were advanced quickly to 63 1-2 May, 65 1-2 July, 66 1-4 Septem- ber. Offerings were quite liberal at the advance and the market did not take the corn well, reacting 1-2 to 3-4 from best point for the late months and then showing fair re- covery a little later.

Oats prices worked higher in sym- pathy with other grains. There was good buying of the May by one of the leading holders of cash oats while cash houses in general were buying the May presumably taking off hedges. At top prices commis- sion houses had a good many oats for sale which held the advancing tendency of values in check.

Provisions had a strong opening. There was a good demand in evi- dence. Pit traders, outside invest- ors and some of the outside pack- ers who were taking off hedges, were all arrayed on the buying side. The offerings were light.

All grains except July wheat closed weak and lower. Provisions sharp- ly lower all around.

FELL OFF FREIGHT SKULL FRACTURED

Viroqua Man Found Dead Beside Railroad Tracks at Rockland Yesterday

SPARTA, WIS., March 28.—The body of a man supposed to be Iver Anderson, a stone mason who formerly lived near Viroqua, was found one mile and a half east of Rockland this morning with the skull fractured. Life was extinct.

Train No. 3 reported having seen a man lying beside the tracks when it reached Sparta and the next train stopped and picked up the dead man. Papers and letters on his person were the only means of identification and they were addressed to Iver Anderson, St. Paul. Later information reached here that he was a stone mason employed in the C. M. & St. P. bridge gang and had resided near Viroqua until the death of his wife who died recently.

The suit case of the dead man was found beside him and from this fact it is believed that he fell off some freight train in the night and was instantly killed. His face was bruised beyond recognition and the body was thrown some distance from the tracks.

In his dress suit case was found a picture of his wife, a box of cigars, a bottle containing whiskey and some clean clothes.

The body was brought to Sparta and prepared for burial at the Letson Undertaking rooms.

Will Vote on License

Sparta will vote on the license question at the election next week Tuesday as the result of the filing of a petition by the "drys" which contained 106 names. The "wets" however, claim that the city will go for license again the same as last year on account of the way in which the saloon business has been managed here during the past nine months. It is said by some that Sparta's saloons have never been run more orderly than during this period. The "drys" claim the city will not vote licenses again and the most interesting topic for street arguments at the present time is based on the license question.

The town of Lincoln, and city of Tomah will also vote on the license question this election.

"GIF" WOULDN'T KNOW HIS HOME

George Irvine Returns from One of the Most Interesting Development Projects in West

"Gif" Jones left twenty miles from nowhere, just beyond Valier, Mont., because of the encroachments of a meddlesome civilization.

"Cain't ride half a day no whar 'bout hitting one of them settlers' shacks," he said, disgruntled, and he mournfully shook his head and withdrew to the fastnesses of the mountains half a century to the west.

That was some time ago, shortly after George Irvine crossed the Bad Lands to become associated with the Cargill Land Companies that promoted Conrad and Valier, Mont., and have made an erstwhile desert to blossom as the rose. If Jones were to be suddenly dropped today upon the scene of the "diggins" which he deserted, he would find himself, comparatively speaking, in the center of a seething civilization. They are farming there now, farming on the big roomy scale of the west.

Mr. Irvine is browned and tanned by the wind and sun of the wide prairies which he has seen in less than a year transformed from a howling wilderness to a garden of productive-ness. He has had some interesting experiences in Montana, and incidentally has picked up a quarter section of fine land within two miles of Williamstown, a new over-night city that has sprung up between Valier and Conrad. Williamstown is named for the Wills in the Cargill Land company, a few of whom are Williams S. Cargill, who promoted the concern, William G. Conrad, the original owner of the land, William Wood Withee, one of the big guns, William M. Wayman, manager, William L. Campbell, sales manager. The land about him is generally occupied, almost all of the thirty odd thousand acres of the deeded property having been disposed of, and much of the 30,000 acres of Cargill lands having been sold. Indeed, the country presents evidence of a wonderful transformation. One year the vast prairie, inviting but dry; the next year a populous farming district whose acreage drinks from the ditches of a great irrigation system, and whose center is pierced by a railroad along which great elevators hungrily await the storage of the coming crops. This is the panorama that our La Crosse capitalists have put on in the west.

Horses Shift for Selves

"One of the things that impressed me," said Mr. Irvine, "is the way they don't take care of their horses. They break these tough western cayuses, break their hearts and some times their necks, but in the end subjugate them. Then they work them hard during the summer months, and in the winter turn them out to shift for themselves on a pasture of snow. No water, no feed is given them, but the tough little nags paw down to the dried prairie grass, and quench their thirst; after the meal by eating snow, and they come out in the spring fat and in fine fettle."

"While there has been little importation of draft horses, because the cayuse gives better service in that country, the cattle are all high grade. The Herefords have a foothold in the Valier country and this strain runs through nearly every herd. "I said that they break the horses, but I found upon experimenting that they are not 'tenderfoot broke.' The little imps know in a minute when a green hand from the east is on deck, and they proceed to do about as they please. I never was thrown from one, but my first attempt to ride a half mile resulted in my rebellious mount taking a five mile canter with me before I landed at my destination."

"About the toughest experience I recall in the west was a week I spent on Birch creek, which is hardly the center of civilization. An engine used in the building of concrete water gates at the head of the irrigation canal had gone wrong and I was sent to fix it. I had expected to stay a day, but found it badly jammed and was obliged to put in a week. The thermometer ranged from 27 to 30 degrees below zero that week, and we slept in a wood shack you could throw your hat through. It was rather heroic treatment for a tenderfoot, but I pullled through all right and even learned to like it. "The weather in this section is fine. While there are some cold spells, the air is dry and lacks the penetrating element from which people suffer in some localities. In addition to that there is always hope of the chinook, the wind that blows through the mountain passes from the Pacific carrying the breath of the Japanese current. I have seen it in the dead of winter melt down a foot of snow in a day. The Indians tell us that this wind conveys the goodwill of the Chinook tribe, the medicine men of which enjoy great fame among the red brethren."

"By the way, H. J. Charlton, formerly of the Listman Mill company, who associated himself with the Cargill people at Conrad, is now president of the Valier real estate company, one of the most successful and prosperous land companies in this part of Montana."

Mr. Irvine's plans for the future have not fully been determined upon, but he anticipates returning to Montana.

The body will be brought to the city for interment. Arrangements will be announced later.

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

Any system that needs a tonic needs also a blood purifier, for it is the weakened, impure condition of the circulation that is responsible for the run-down state of health.

The supreme office and duty of the blood is to furnish nourishment to every portion of the body. The circulatory system, magnificent and wonderful in its construction, supplies the means for the distribution of systemic nutriment to every muscle, nerve, bone, gland, sinew and tissue of the body; and just as long as the blood remains pure and rich each of these members are healthy, strong and normal.

We have only to recognize the importance of pure blood in preserving health, to realize the danger of a weakened circulation. The use of a proper tonic when the system is depleted and run-down will often prevent the development of some serious sickness, because weak systems cannot resist disease, while healthy systems are able to ward it off.

Deficient blood nutriment is usually manifested in a general bodily weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, fickle appetite, poor digestion, Sleep does not sufficiently refresh the body, and the languid feeling frequently makes the ordinary duties of life burdensome.

S. S. S. is Nature's Tonic. It made entirely of botanical products gathered directly from the heart of Nature's forests. It does not contain a particle of strong, harmful mineral in any form, but is a scientific composition of extracts and juices from herb roots and barks. S. S. S. is the greatest of all tonics, because it is not a nerve stimulant, but a medicine that steadily builds up every portion of the system by cleansing and enriching the blood, and in this way supplying an increased amount of nourishment and strength to every portion of the body. S. S. S. rids the system of that tired, worn-out feeling, quiet over-strained nerves, makes sleep refreshing, corrects any stomach disturbance, promotes good digestion and adds vigor and vim to the entire system.

LAKE COMO GONE, ABANDON RESORT

Popular "Idlewild" will Not Be in Operation at Hokah During the Summer

The once popular summer resort at Hokah, known as "Idlewild," which was conducted by P. E. Steves of this city, has been abandoned and campers and fishing parties will be obliged to seek recreation elsewhere, because of the breaking of the dam and the washing away of the beautiful lake during a storm last August.

P. E. Steves has moved back to La Crosse and will not go back to Hokah to take charge of the summer resort. Immediately after the lake was destroyed a movement was started to raise a sufficient amount of money to reconstruct the dam and restore the lake to its former beauty.

A subscription paper was circulated and, it is said, $1,300 was raised, principally among residents of this city, who spent several weeks at the resort each summer. This, however, was not a sufficient amount of money to go ahead with the project and consequently all plans to build the dam have been abandoned. At present only a narrow creek flows through Hokah at the point where the lake was formerly located.

Lake Como was considered one of the most beautiful summer resorts on the entire Milwaukee system and hundreds of pleasure seekers from all parts of the country camped there every summer.

She had called for help and after trying in vain to arise, had dropped to sleep. When found, she had suffered so much from exposure that she died soon after. Her mental faculties were somewhat impaired. Her home was near that of her son, Chas. McDermontt.
